(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, VA., Jan. 26.—It is now definitely known here that Swanson will make the race for the gubernatorial nomination before the State Democratic Convention. Letters that have been received by prominent Tidewater Virsinia Democrats from the congressman bimself indicate that this is his determination. It is believed that the support that will be given Swanson from this section of Virginia will be surprising. On the Peninsula the congressman's friends have been hard at work for a long while, and it is believed that he will have the largest support he has ever received on this side of Hampton

TERRIBLE INJURIES.

John Baker will likely die of terrible wounds sustained by him when he fell into the feeder machine at the Oliver Refining Company's plant here last night. The man was literally ground up, His left leg was mangled so badly that it had to be amputated below the knee, hie right leg was broken in two places and the foot horribly mashed. His right arm was fractured in two places, he sustained internal injuries and severe cuts about the body.

John W. Bilson, of Claremont, Va., was arraigned in the United States a pension. Owing to pressure of public business, the commissioner could not appear against Bilson, and his case was

CONTINUES UNITED THAN HOME.

John Lewis Davis may pursue his ambition to be a sailor unhampered by parental objections. The habeas corpus proceedings brought by his mother, who lives in Birmingham to procure his release from the service, were quashed today in the Federal Court. The policy of the government in these cases is to hold the recruit in the service to prevent its demoralization. It is understood that the recruiting officer in this case had the written permission of the mother for the lad's enlistment. He, himself, declared on the witness gand that he preferred the navy to home.

Brought to Bear on Legislature (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) HEATHVILLE, VA., Jan. 25.—The oystermen of this section are beginning to wake up and take some interest in the oyster bills that are being offered in the Legislature. The widespread infrience of the organization known as the Oystermen's Protective Union is the chief cause of this. Last week a county union was organized in Lancaster county. Delegates from all but three of the sixteen stations in the county met at Irvington, elected officers for the association, and took steps to spread the movement in the other counties of the Northern Neck, Forty-five delegates with credentials were present, and probably fifty others also interested were present. The colored people stated that they did not expect representation, but that they were willing to help the white stations in any way possible. Robert M. Meekins was chosen president of the union; Will White, vicepresident; George Cottinghum, treasurer, and J. W. Thomas, secretary. Executive

COLD WAVE HERE AGAIN

Big Drop in Temperature Promised and Bitter Weather Promised by To-night.

HAS BEEN A COLD WINTER

And There Are Probabilities That Next Summer Will be Very Hot.

Another reign of ice and sleet and cold is the prospect that stares Richmond in the face this morning.

The expected snow for last night did not come, nor was the temperature lowmore pleasant than usual, and the sky was clear, with many a twinkling star overs that a cold, a very cold, wave is sweeping toward Richmond. Warnings were sent out yesterday. Bitter weather is expected and by to-night it will be very much below freezing. All of this means more suffering among the poor of the city.

No one can doubt that this winter has been cold, and the fact naturally raises the question, will next summer be het? The Times-Dispatch has had the privilege of a long and exhaustive interview with Mr. Edward A. Evans, director of the Weather Bureau for Virginia, and as a result of that interview it seems more than probable that next summer will be as much too hot as this winter has been too cold. Taking the temperature by and large, year in and year out, it tends to approximate a fixed average, and the departure from that average for one month, whether over under, is sure to be made up later by a variation in the opposite direction.

Taking the twelve months of 1903, we find that the daily variations were as follows: of the city.
